| 1.   | a. ☐ A friendly agreement between all competitors…
      b. ☐ Any joint action that has a worthy motive
      Neither would be allowed. Friendly agreements like the one in (a) are never allowed. A joint action (b) with a worthy motive might be allowed if it did not unreasonably restrain trade, but a worthy motive is not enough by itself to make the action acceptable under the Act.
      5 points for each correct answer
      Note: Allow 5 points for each answer not checked.
      -5 points for each answer checked | 10 |
| 2.   | Because they can seriously affect competition. | 5 points | 5 |
| 3.   | Extra Credit | Accept any two of the following:
      - A new standard can make non-conforming products unacceptable in the marketplace.
      - A revised standard can make inventories of existing products unacceptable in the marketplace.
      - New or revised standards can add significant production costs to a product.
      5 points for each correct answer | 10 |
| 4.   | All three situations could cause problems:
      a. ☑ Will have devastating effect…You forget it
      In this case, you have an obligation to notify an ASME officer if you become aware of harm done or expected.
      b. ☑ A committee chairman… delays approval
      In this case, you have a right to present your point of view, but not to use influencing tactics not available to the public.
      c. ☑ A committee member’s request… is moved up
      In this case, you have given preferential treatment to committee members.
      5 points for each correct answer
      -5 points for each incorrect answer | 15 |
| 5.   | Extra Credit | Both situations could lead to problems:
      a. ☑ You discuss accreditation of a company at lunch
      In this case, you should not discuss committee issues without the full committee being present.
      b. ☑ You dispense with the formal agenda
      In this case, you should always have a formal agenda and stick to it.
